This price is certainly within the reach of all, for both lighting and cooking purposes. The convenience and comfort of cooking by gas, especially during the summer mouths, where a fire is not otherwise required, can only be thoroughly appreciated by those who have had experience in its useful application for that purpose. The Company has sold for use in this city during the last four years a large number of gas stoves, and is satisfied from the many testimonials from its patrons, that these stoves "fill a long felt want."

Appointments by the President and the Secretary of the Interior -Other Matters.

A GREAT MAN'S WEAKNESS.

The Committee on Indian Affairs-Wha It Will Do-Appointments to Place Under the Internal Revenue Collector of this District.

Special to the Sentinel. WASHINGTON, May 15 .- Mr. Lamar is said to be one of the smoothest and most serene of men. For a moment there was an expression of agony on his face when Hayes was counted in, but only for a moment. The highest type of genera'ship is to bring all possible good out of what otherwise would prove a disaster. It was only of what he should do in case of a reverse that Napoleon thought before entering a battle. Worn out, he instructed his Secretary at the Tuilleries: "During the night enter my chamber as seldem as possible. Do not awaken me when you have good news to communicate; with that there is no hurry. But when you bring oad news, rouse me instantly, for there is not a moment to be lost." Men of reserved force who make the most out of all character of fortune the world calls great. The calamity of a conflagration is always largely ameliorated by the reflection that the insurance money will g far toward repairing damages. Prudent husbandry keep the crib swelled with old corn until after the new crop is assured Drouth and flood and frest and rust wil come, but preparation for bad seasons is the alchemist's secret that turns everything i touches into gold. It is not alone the officehunters who have learned that one don't have everything his own way in this life. Much of the time the Atlantic is as smooth as a mirror and toy boats could navigate in perfect safety. In a calm a good ship seems burdened with its own strength. But even in peace wisdom is always prepared for war.

Lamar's serenity in all kinds of weather for years has been the wonder of the Washington people of the pen. While by no means indifferent, no criticism ever pricked his natural amiability. While feeling justified in holding the flag at half-mast over the Interior Department in honor of Jeff Thompson, adverse and bitterly expressed opinion gave him no pain. While serious, he treated the matter with great composure Lamar, however, with all of his magnifi cent scholarship and kindness, with his vast wealth of all the qualities mankind admires, and to which it does reverence, has a weakness. This weakness the c'osest scrutiny never discovered until within the past few weeks. He rides daily, and, would you believe it, the old sinner is vain of his horse manship. Equestrian exercise he regards as one of the necessaries of life, and sits a steed like Cortez as that conqueror appeared before the Montezumas. His principal pride is the pride of horse. Lately it was telegraphed that the Secretary of the Interior was injured by being thrown from his saddle. That blasphemous scandal, the mere hint that the steed was ever foaled or that even the most vigorous bucker of the Texas bronchos could unhorse him, was as cold steel entering his soul. The slander was a mortification, before which he under a great sense of wrong, a newspaper man tells me that for the first time in his life he lost his composure. Had he been unhorsed and sent sprawling to the ground he could never have looked the President of these United States in the face again. That's the kind of a man Lamar is. Mr. Holman is preparing to visit the Indians, but, like Mr. Cleveland, seems to be making baste slowly. I called at his room last night at 9 o'clock. He was busily engaged with a stenographer. He told me that his mail was larger than ever before-people frem all over Br. Hunter's internal revenue district are writing him for letters to that gentleman asking for places. People whom Dr. Hunter knows better than Mr Holman does. "While it is true that I was friendly to Dr. Hunter in the matter of his appointment, people forget," he said, "that I could use no influence with him, except in a general way. Dr. Hunter gives a bond of $150,000, and his place is one of the largest responsibility. In view of that fact, for me to urge an appointment upon him would be highly improper. To a certain ex-tent he goes the security of his appointees, and as he to know the people of my district, he must make the choice untrammeled by suggestions from me. If he did not know the men the case would be quite different, The Congress men of the various districts will suggest and inderse applicants for places under Dr. Hunter. But in my Congressional district, under the circumstances, in view of the fact that Dr. Hunter's acquaintance is fully as extensive as my own, in justice to him I can not suggest my friend. If he lived in an other district it would be different." When Hoffstetter's recklessness in the matter of warrants was revealed last winter General Manson arose in his place in the State Serate and said: "If I am to be held responsible for the drawing of warrants I noon to drive with the General. ought to be allowed to select the man who draws them." The Senate recognized the justice of the request and accorded him the

This Indian question is one of the biggest things in the Government. If every Indian been kept at Willard's. and furnished with a reasonable amount of pocket money, the expense of keeping them would not have been so great. est was searched in vain, long years passed. As written by Longfellow— "Time dried the maiden's tears, She had forgot her fear. She was a mother."

In the young barbarians about her knee, begotten by her savage lord, she found a world of pleasure in the pathless woods. But the sea will give up its dead; and a large estate as well as a brother's love a last identified the the sister and the heir. The story was told me by Judge Biddle. The brother besought her to return to her own people, which she refused to do. In court on the witness stand she testified: on the witness stand she testified:

"White people may become Indians, but Indians can never become white people."

It is possible that after being educated the returned Indian relapses completely back into the babits of the tribe. A Congressional Committee within the history of the Gov-ernment was never charged with a larger Russia Still Procrastinuting in Regard to Settlement.

London, May 15 .- In the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone stated that he did not know whether Russia's answer concerning the Afghan frontier agreement reached by Lord Granville, the Earl of Kimberly, Baron De Staal and M. Lessar, and submitted to the Czar for approval, bad yet arrived in London. The negotiations between the two Governments continue, Mr. Gladstone said, and the Government were unaware of any further Russian advance, the latest telegrams received making no mention of any advance.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: "The Russians have at the present moment 120,000 men between the Caspian Sea and Herat. According to the best military estimate, Russia's position is practically unassailable. and it would be madness for an Anglo-Indian army of less than 250,000 to attempt operating in Central Asia against Russia.

The Standard, in an editorial, says: "To speak plainly, the drift of the Anglo Russian agreement, which was sent to St. Petersburg for approval, is found to be wholly unacceptable to the Czar's Ministers. Though not formally rejected, it has been so thoroughly condemned in detail that practically it has ceased to be an agreement. There is something vastly more serious than a hitch in the proceedings. We are back in February again, the situation being only altered to our disadvantage."

The Times' Calcutta correspondent denies that there has been a stoppage of military preparations in Iudia. He says rumors to that effect are untrue.

A dispatch from St. Petersourg to the Journal Des de Bats, Paris, states that Russia has entirely rejected the British proposals. The same dispatch also s ates that Russia will demand the right to have an acknowledged Russian representa tive at Cabul, the capital of Alghanistan French diplomates think this latter demand, if made, will prove more serious than any frontier question.

The Pall Mall Gezette this afternoon says it is untrue that Russia has either accepted or rejected the English proposals regarding the frontier arrangement. The Gazette declares that there is no serious hitch in the negotiations, although it is possible that the few points . which remain open may postpone the conclusion of the agreement for a few days.

The Globe this afternoon states that England demanded a definite pledge from Russia to respect the new Russo-Afghan frontier under any circumstances, and to renew the assurance that Afghanistan was outside of Russia's sphere. Russia refused to accede to this request of England, and retaliated by demanding further concessions.

Trial of the Alleged Dynamiters-The Gov ernment Closes Its Case-The Witnesses for the Defense.

LONDON, May 15 .- The trial of Cunningham and Barton was resumed this morning, Drs. Ford and Dupre, Government chemists, were examined in regard to the explosive subtances, and the case for the crown was closed. The case for the defense was the: opened. Mary O'Brien, a newspaper ven ier, was called to the witness stand, and swore that Cunningham was in Miss Cannon's lodging house, where he had a room, at the time of the explosion on the Metropolitan Railway, between Gower street and King's newspaper at the lodging house on the night | prisoners. the explosion occurred, and that she saw cash in the Treasury finished the notes in him there from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. The explesion occurred at 9 o'clock. On being cross-examined, the witness said she had not communicated with Mr. Quillian, the prisoner's counsel. Mr. Quillian came to her at the end of March, and then she remembered forthwith all the circumstances which she had related. Catherine White, who lives at Miss Cannon's house, confirmed the testimony given by Mary O'Brien, but admitted that she had not recollected the circumstance of Cunningham's being at home the night of the explosion until Mr. Quillian came and informed her of it. She was examined at the Tressury early in February, but did not then mention the circumstance. She denied that she had received money to testify for the defense. Counsel for Burton then subcommission has been suspended pending mitted that no evidence had been adduced showing the evidence of a conspiracy, but the Judge declared that that question must be decided by the jury.

Catherine White's testimony constituted the evidence for the defense. Burton asked permission to make a statement. The Judges consented, and Burton made an oral statement, which was not put in evidence by the defense. He said: "I am entirely innecent. I arrived at Southampton on the stean ship Donaue in February, 1884. came to Eprope by the advice of a doctor for the benefit of my health.
